

I like to extend my photographs, to go beyond what the camera has done. My work is a combination of manipulating photographic emulsions, light, and color dyes for effects that are dream-like or surreal in content. I have no explanation about the meanings of my photographs and I don't think it's really necessary. What is important is that the viewer experiences something positive from them.

Marty Fumo